Before you start

Ventranet is a hand-picked list of business events in Switzerland. Reading it, filtering it and saving events needs no account and costs nothing.

This guide shows every part of the events pages: the filter with its six groups, the list, an event up close, registering, your calendar and asking the organiser a question. The pictures are from ventranet.ch in October 2026.

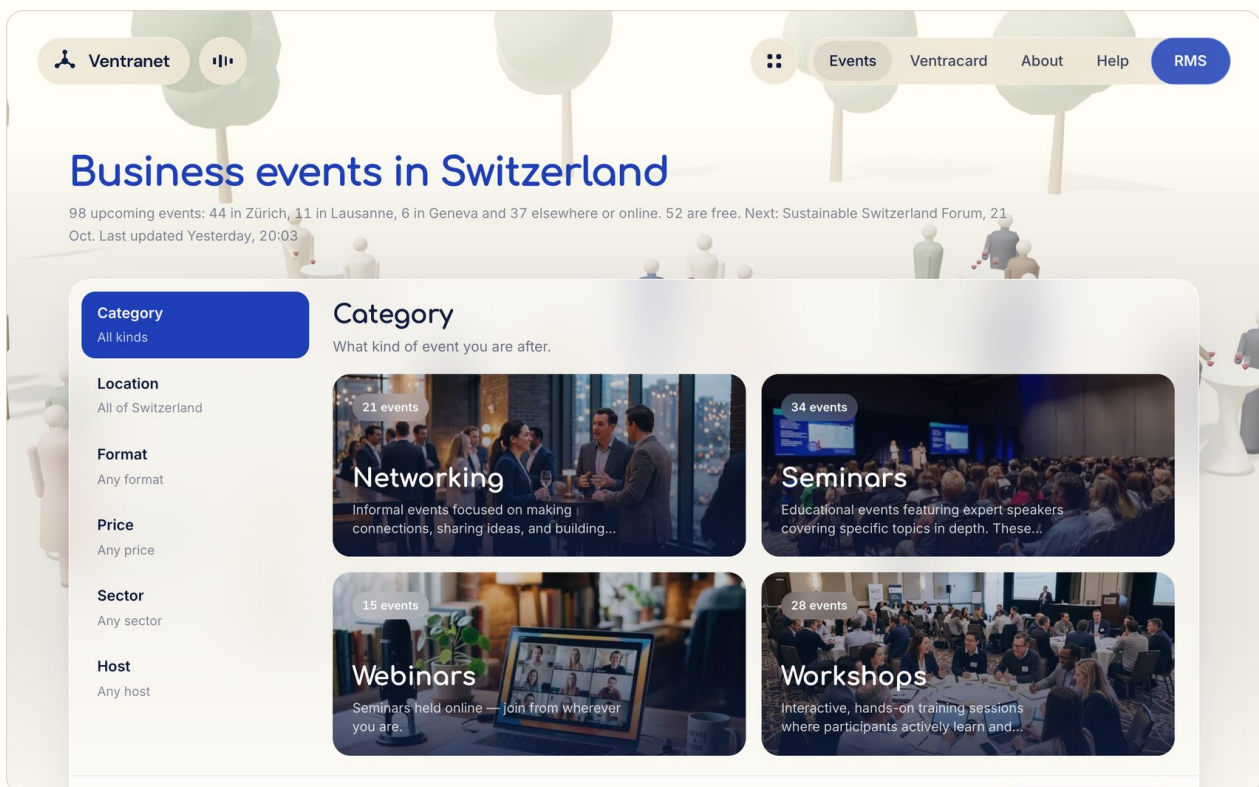

1. Finding events

How events get here, the filters, city and sector pages, saving and the archive.

How events get onto Ventranet

A person checks and chooses every event before it goes live.

Ventranet lists business, startup and networking events in Switzerland. Nobody can add an event on their own, and nobody pays to appear. A person reads every event before it goes live.

ventranet.ch/events: the heading, the filter and, below it, the list.

The four steps

1. We find it. We follow organisers, venues, communities and their newsletters.
2. We check it. Is the organiser credible? Is there real value in going, and for whom? Would we tell a colleague to go?
3. We put it in order. Date, format, cost, place and category go into the same structure for every event, so you can compare them.
4. It goes live with a direct link to the organiser. No middleman, no markup.

Where the details come from

From the organiser's public announcement and website, and sometimes from material the organiser sends us. Software helps us read the details off an event page. A person checks them before anything is published.

Prices and times are the organiser's. They can change, so check the organiser's page before you go.

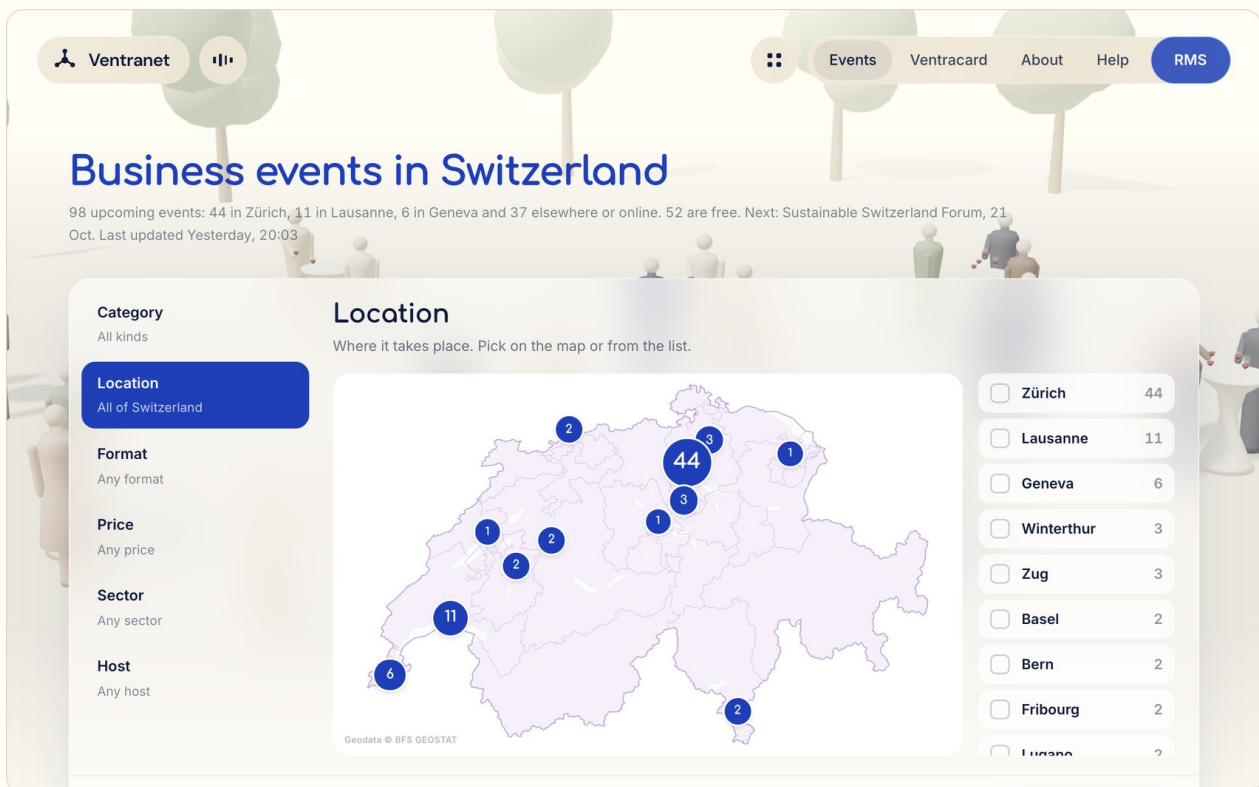

What you will not find here

Paid placements, events scraped in bulk, or events we would not go to ourselves. That is why the list is shorter than a calendar of everything.

Filter the list

Six filters, all at once if you like. Every option shows how many events it would leave.

On Events the filter sits above the list. Each choice applies the moment you make it. There is no Apply button, and you can pick several options in each group.

Location: the map and the list of cities with events. The number beside each city is what you would see if you chose it.

Filter	What it does
Category	Networking, Seminars, Webinars or Workshops, as four pictures.
Location	A map of Switzerland and a list of the cities with events. Choose one or several. None means the whole country.
Format	In person, Hybrid or Online.

Filter	What it does
Price	A slider over bars that show how many events cost how much. Drag the two handles, or pick Free, Under 50, Under 100, Under 200 or Any price.
Sector	Fintech, AI, Legal and the rest, with a search field. An event can sit in two sectors and is found under both.
Host	The organisers, as logos, with a search field. An event counts for its co-hosts too.

The numbers on the options

Every option shows how many events you would see if you chose it, with everything else you chose kept as it is. An option that would leave nothing is greyed out, so you never end up with an empty list. Inside a group the choices add up: Zürich and Bern shows both cities. Between groups they narrow: Zürich and Workshops shows workshops in Zürich.

What is chosen

On a computer, the groups are on the left and each says what is chosen in it. At the foot of the field, everything you chose appears as blue chips: click one to remove it, or Clear all. The button beside them, such as Show 12 events, takes you down to the list.

On a phone, the four kinds of event sit as buttons next to Filters. Filters opens a sheet with every group; the button at its foot says how many events you will see.

Sorting

By date is the default, soonest first, with a heading for each month. You can also sort by time of day or by price, in either direction.

Good to know

- Summits and conferences count as Seminars. A seminar held online counts as a Webinar.
- An event appears under its city if that is one of the 20 hubs. Otherwise it goes to the nearest hub.
- One city or one sector on its own gives the list its own address, like ventranet.ch/events/in/zurich, which you can bookmark or share.

On a phone: Filters and the four kinds of event above the list.

Filters opens a sheet with every group; the button at the foot says how many events you will see.

City and sector pages

One city or one sector has its own address you can bookmark and share.

When the filter holds exactly one city and nothing else, the address changes to that city: ventranet.ch/events/in/zurich, with the heading “Business events in Zürich”. Exactly one sector does the same: ventranet.ch/events/sector/fintech.

Bookmark these addresses or send them to someone. They always show what is on now, with the same filters you can still change on the page.

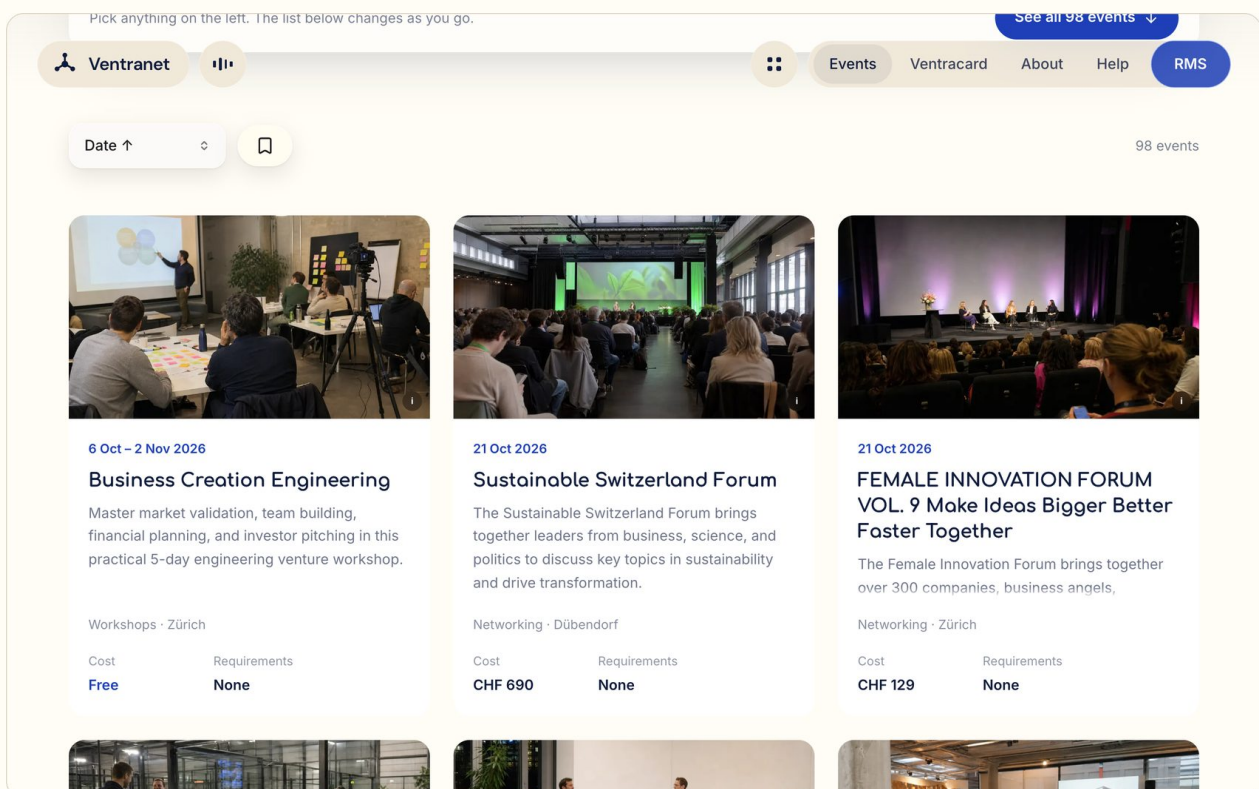

Choose a second city, add a format or a cost, and the page goes back to ventranet.ch/events.

The busiest cities and sectors are listed at the bottom of every page, under Events in and Events by sector, as many as fit on one line.

Save events for later

A bookmark on every event. No account, and the list stays on your device.

Open an event and press the bookmark. That is all. To see only what you saved, press the bookmark above the list. The number next to it is how many you have.

The screenshot shows the Ventranet website interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with the Ventranet logo, a menu icon, and links for Events, Ventracard, About, Help, and RMS. Below the navigation bar, there's a filter section with a 'Date' dropdown and a bookmark icon. The main content area displays a list of events, each with a thumbnail image, a title, a date, a description, a location, and cost/requirements. The events listed are:

- Business Creation Engineering (6 Oct – 2 Nov 2026, Zürich, Free, None)
- Sustainable Switzerland Forum (21 Oct 2026, Dübendorf, CHF 690, None)
- FEMALE INNOVATION FORUM VOL. 9 Make Ideas Bigger Better Faster Together (21 Oct 2026, Zürich, CHF 129, None)

At the bottom of the screenshot, there are more event thumbnails partially visible.

The list: date, title, what it is about, where, cost and requirements. The bookmark on a picture saves the event.

Where the list lives

In your browser, on this device. You need no account, and we never receive the list. If you accept all cookies, we only see that an event was saved. That also means:

- On another device or browser you start with an empty list.
- Clearing your browser's site data clears the list.
- An event that has passed leaves the list on its own.

For a reminder on the day, add the event to your calendar instead. The calendar remembers across devices.

Past events

The last 90 days, by month, and every event keeps its own page.

An event leaves the list once it has started. A multi-day event stays until its last day is over.

ARCHIVE

Past events (past 90 days)

What we listed over the last 90 days. Older events keep their pages — most of these run again — they are simply no longer in this list.

The archive of past events.

Past events shows the last 90 days, newest first and grouped by month, with date, event, place, organiser and category.

Older events disappear from that list, but their own pages stay. On a past event's page the registration button is gone and a note says the event has already taken place.

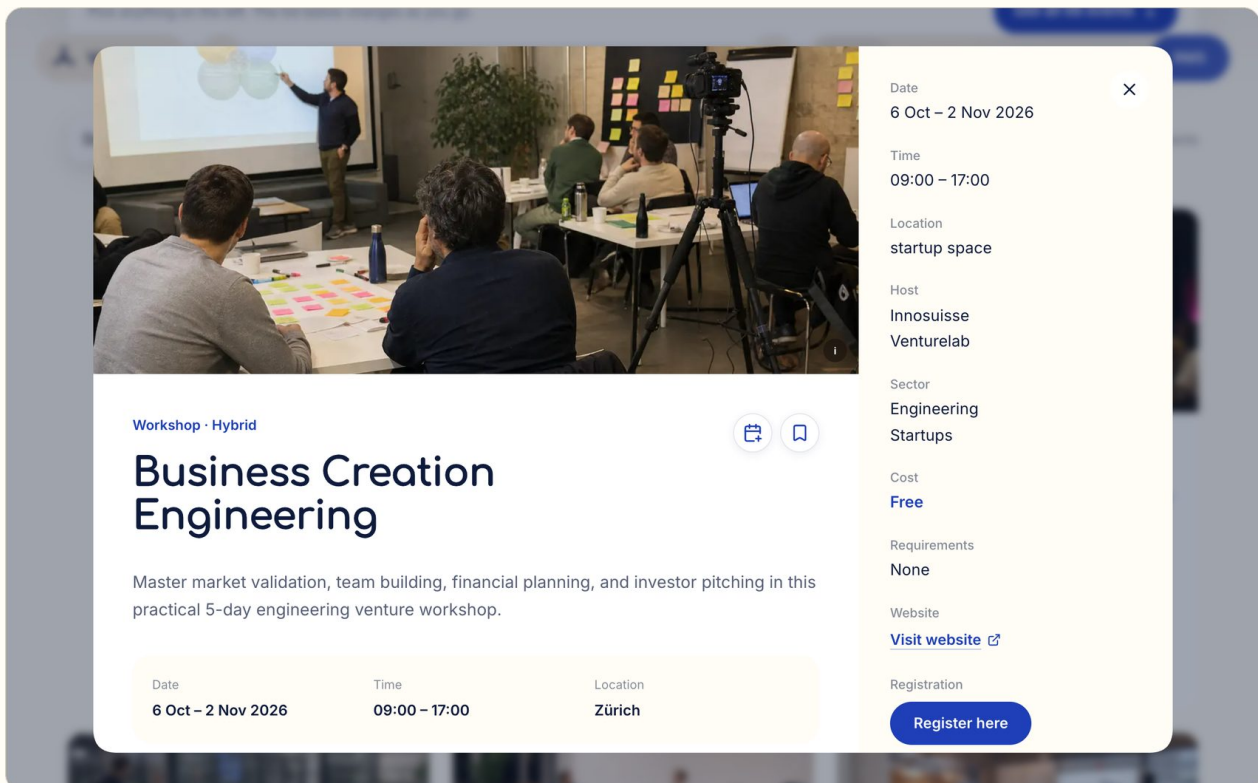

2. An event, up close

What an event shows, registering, your calendar, and questions for the organiser.

What an event shows

The card, the popup and the event page, and what each detail means.

The card

An event opened from the list: date, time, place, hosts, sector and cost on the right.

Every card shows the date, the city or Online, the category, the title, who hosts it, a short description, the cost and any requirements.

Cost reads Free, a single price like CHF 40, or a range like CHF 20 – 50 when there are several tickets. Prices are rounded to whole francs.

Requirements says None, or what the organiser asks for, such as a membership or an application.

The popup

Click a card and the event opens in place. The address in your browser changes to the event's own page, so you can copy and share it. The browser's back button closes it again.

Inside you find the full description, the speakers and the ticket tiers if there are several. On the side are date, time, place, address, hosts, sectors, cost, requirements, the organiser's website and the registration link. On a phone, these facts sit in a drawer called Details.

Click a speaker or a host to read about them without leaving the event.

The event page

Hold Cmd or Ctrl while you click, or open a shared link, and you land on the event's own page. It has the same facts, the button to register, a form for questions, and six more events that might suit you.

About the pictures. Most covers are generated by AI. Those carry a small i. The real room looks different, but has a similar atmosphere. Photos from the organiser have no mark.

Further down: what the event is about, and the way to register on the organiser's site.

If an event needs no registration, the popup says Not required. Then you turn up.

Refunds and changes

Those are between you and the organiser, under their terms. We cannot cancel or refund a ticket, because we never sold it.

Prices and times come from the organiser and can change. The organiser's page always has the latest.

Add an event to your calendar

Google Calendar, Apple Calendar or Outlook, from the event popup.

Open the event and choose Add to calendar. Pick where it should go:

- Google Calendar opens a new event in Google, already filled in.
- Apple Calendar downloads a small .ics file. Open it and your calendar adds the event.
- Outlook opens a new event in Outlook.

On a phone, Add to calendar sits in the bar at the bottom of the popup.

The calendar entry is a copy. If the organiser moves the event later, your entry stays as it was, so check the organiser's page before you go.

Ask the organiser a question

Ask us anything about an event. We put it to the organiser and answer you by email.

Ask us about the language, the dress code, whether there is parking, or whether the second half alone is worth it.

Ventrane

Events Ventracard About Help RMS

Ask about an event. We'll find out.

Event pages rarely answer the one question that decides it for you. Ask it here. We put it to the organiser and write back.

We send your question to the organiser as ours. Your name stays out of it, unless you want it in.

The answer comes to you by email. Some organisers never reply. Then we tell you so.

We keep a question for 24 months after you sent it.

Ask about an event: pick the event and write your question. We put it to the organiser and write back.

1. You ask. On the event's page, under Not sure if it is for you?, or on Support. Your name, your email and the question. That is all.
2. We ask the organiser for you. We already know whom to write to. Your name stays out of it unless you want it in.
3. You get an answer by email. If the organiser never replies, we tell you that rather than leave you waiting.

It is free, and you need no account.

Please leave out anything sensitive, such as health details. We keep a question for 24 months after you sent it.

Speakers: the people who speak at events on Ventrane.

Hosts does the same for the organisations behind the events: their logo, a link to their website, a text about them, and their events.

Not every speaker or host has a page. A page exists once we have written a text about them.

Is it you?

If something about you is wrong, or you would rather not have a page, write to admin@ventrane.ch. You do not need to give a reason. We aim to correct or remove it within a few working days.

Report a mistake in a listing

A wrong time, a moved venue, a cancelled event. Tell us and we fix it.

Write to admin@ventranet.ch or use the Support form, and say which event and what is wrong. We correct the listing or take it down. Changes show on the site as soon as we save them.

Organisers

There is no form to submit an event. We find events ourselves (see How events get onto Ventrane). If you organise one and something in our listing is off, or you have a better picture, write to us at the same address.

Still stuck?

Write to admin@ventranet.ch. A person reads every email. The Help Center at ventranet.ch/help has the newest version of everything in this guide.
